5. Do you still have the license plate? ☐ Yes ☐ No

*If you still have the license plate in your possession, a current registration and decal will be issued to reactivate the license plate to the vehicle indicated on the reverse side.

*If you no longer have the license plate, a new plate with the next available number will be issued to you.

6. You are responsible for paying any applicable renewal fees. There are no refunds of any fees for exchanged plates. Your current license plate must be returned to DMV.

After the death of a vehicle owner, the surviving spouse should remove the name of the deceased from the title. This is necessary for insurance and tax purposes and will lessen the burden for legal heirs after the death of the surviving spouse.

In order to transfer the title of a jointly owned vehicle (or appears between the two names) into the surviving spouse's name, the surviving spouse signs the back of the title as the seller. The surviving spouse also completes the remainder of the title and signs as the purchaser and completes the bottom section of the title as the purchaser.

If the title is in the name of the deceased only, or the word and appears between the two names, the administrator or executor of the estate signs as the seller, and the surviving spouse signs as the purchaser. If the word and appears between the names, the surviving spouse must sign as one of the sellers. A copy of the court appointment papers should accompany the application for the transfer of the title. The surviving spouse also completes the bottom section of the title as the purchaser.

In both instances, the surviving spouse should submit the properly reassigned title. The odometer disclosure information, insurance information and current registration card for the vehicle being titled must also be completed.

There are no fees for the transfer of title, if the surviving spouse is the legal heir and you have attached a copy of the court appointment papers.

APPLICANT'S STATEMENT

I hereby certify that I am the surviving spouse of a veteran who had a special military license plate, which has not been renewed and that the information above is true and correct to the best of my knowledge and belief, and I understand that any false statements may result in legal penalties pursuant to the West Virginia Motor Vehicle Law 17A-9-1; Fraudulent Applications.
